

“What if?”

What if we all, at the same time...

- ...Decided to violate all the laws with which we disagreed?
- ...Decided to cheat on any kind of test or requirement?
- ...Decided to seek personal revenge upon someone who wronged us?
- ...Decided to leave our job because we felt there was too much pressure?
- ...Decided to “live together” instead of making the commitment of marriage?
- ...Decided to leave our mate because we weren’t happy?
- ...Decided not to raise and provide for our children because it was just too difficult?
- ...Decided for ourselves what it takes/means to be a Christian?
- ...Decided to skip worship because there was something else we wanted to do?

On the other hand, what if we all, at the same time...

- ...Resolved to obey (as long as they are in harmony with the will of God) the laws of the land ?
- ...Resolved to be honest in every facet of life?
- ...Resolved to leave vengeance to God?
- ...Resolved to do the best that we can at our job and use it to glorify God?
- ...Resolved to marry one person, for life, and to do our part to make that marriage what it ought to be?
- ...Resolved to raise our children in the discipline and instruction of the Lord?
- ...Resolved to let God’s word dictate Christian behavior?
- ...Resolved to assemble and worship with the saints at every opportunity?

We should maintain a commitment: 1) because it is right; 2) because it is good for us; 3) because it is good for those around us. —Lance Cordle
